Who says Janesville is not healthy city? Owing to the illness of the family, the funeral service of little Estlin Forbes, has been postponed, until the family sufficiently recovers to attend the service. Due notice will be given in the papers.

The "Tender" laundry, which has been doing business at North Main street, has removed to the quarters formerly occupied by the O. K. laundry, under the postoffice, where all work left receives prompt and satisfactory attention.

City Treasurer Blount met the school teachers at the central school building this morning, and distributed the sum of fifteen hundred and sixty dollars among them, being the amount of February salaries for teachers and janitors.

The stockholders of the Rock county agricultural society are holding a meeting this afternoon, adopting rules for the year of 1895, and discussing other matters. At three o'clock this afternoon an important business had been transacted. The meeting is a large one, and much interest is taken by the stockholders.

The Galtbraith Brothers, of this city, received a cable dispatch last evening, stating that their representative in Scotland shipped ten head of fine horses per steamer on Wednesday, and that they will arrive in Boston sometime next week. Mr. Archie Galtbraith will start for Boston the first part of the week, to be in time to oversee the loading of the stock.

Messrs. Beebe & Keck, the popular meat market men on East Milwaukee street, are just now cutting some very choice steaks. They recently bought of Mr. Robert Clark, a herd of nice graded cattle, and their patrons are assured of being well served for some time to come. These men thoroughly understand their business, and justly merit the liberal patronage they are receiving. Gave them a call.

The genial face and manly form of our old friend, Mr. Handy Sexton, has been missed for several days, and fearing that he might be consuming matrimony in a quiet way, we were pleased to learn last evening from his pastor that such was not the case. A severe attack of influenza has confined him at home for several days; he is convalescing, however, and will soon be ready for business, and new conquests; the breezy air and pure atmosphere of the first ward delves all kinds of diseases except coughing.

The Atkinson comedy company appeared at the opera house last evening, presenting "Peck's Bad Boy" to a small audience. The play is taken from the "Bad Boy" sketches which have been published in "Peck's Sun," there being no plot worthy of note. Nevertheless, there was some very clever acting on the part of the "Bad Boy," personated by Master Arthur Dunn, "His Girl," Miss Jennie Dunn, and "His Aunt," Mr. Charles E. Osborn; and during the comic scene in the fourth act, Master Dunn favored the audience with the best dancing ever witnessed on the opera house stage. The grocery and apothecary scenes were well set on the stage, and as a whole the audience was pleased with the entertainment. Master Dunn appeared in this city some time ago as "Dead-End," in the Juvenile Pictorial company, as did Miss Jennie Dunn, in the same company, as "Josephine." The last named Miss favored the audience with a few favorite songs last evening, which were heartily enjoyed, but the "Bad-Boy," was laboring under a severe cold, and his voice failed to do him justice, as was plainly visible.

Physical Patchwork.

In Rheumatism and Neuralgia there is a physical patchwork. The medicines taken have not gone to the seat of the disease. Not so with ANTI-RHEUMATISM. It expels Rheumatism permanently. A case in point—that of William Bradley, driver for Adams Express. He says: "Was driven from my business for three months by an attack of Rheumatism. One bottle of ANTI-RHEUMATISM cured me. Have been on my wagon every day since, rain or shine."

The State Fair Located.

Mr. Cyrus Miner, treasurer of the state agricultural society, returned from Madison to-day, and informed the Gazette that the committee on location had unanimously decided to hold the fair at Madison this year. Milwaukee made a bid for it, but it was not such a one as the committee thought it wise to accept.

Our readers will find all medicines advertised in this paper at Prentice & Evenson's drugstore, opposite postoffice, Janesville. Medicines not in liquid form sent by mail. Prescriptions and receipts prepared from pure drugs, cheaper than at any other reliable drugstore in the country.

The Good Work of the Public Library.

The public library is meeting with a success in usefulness and popularity that are even greater than its most enthusiastic advocates predicted. It has been learned by experience during the year the library has been made public, that it is just such an institution as the reading families of Janesville want and need. Every hour during the day and evening when the library is open, and that is from one to nine p. m., men and women, boys and girls, may be seen either going to or returning from the library rooms with books in their hands. It is a great educator, and inspires the young people to do more reading and it furnishes them the books to read.

For the purpose of showing to what extent the public library is patronized, the Gazette is permitted to publish the number of books drawn therefrom in the month of February, giving the number each day during the month:

1, Friday, 82; 2, Saturday, 180; 3, Monday, 97; 4, Tuesday, 88; 5, Wednesday, 110; 6, Thursday, 88; 7, Friday, 81; 8, Saturday, 175; 9, Monday, 163; 10, Tuesday, 91; 11, Wednesday, 100; 12, Thursday, 95; 13, Friday, 89; 14, Saturday, 108; 15, Sunday, 132; 16, Monday, 80; 17, Tuesday, 84; 18, Wednesday, 100; 19, Thursday, 102; 20, Friday, 180; 21, Saturday, 150; 22, Monday, 106; 23, Tuesday, 105; 24, Wednesday, 96; 25, Thursday, 73; 26, Friday, 98.

This makes a total of 1,730 for the month, the largest number drawn out in any month since the library was established. The reading room, in which the latest daily papers and the leading monthly magazines are on file, is also well patronized, the average number of readers each day being nearly 40.

This is encouraging to the people, a source of pride to the officers of the association, and a satisfaction to the authorities of the city.

When layers are prevalent Baxter's Mandrake Bitters will be found a powerful preventive. Price 25 cents. Sold by Stearns & Baker.

We sincerely believe that every case of pulmonary disease, not altogether beyond the reach of human aid, may, if promptly treated, be cured by a Cherry Pectoral.

Canon's Hall, Wednesday Evening.

Those of our citizens who have already heard Professor Salmon's playing, will need no urging to hear him again. The mere announcement that he will play is all that is necessary to insure their attendance. But it is those who have not known of his ability that we would urge to hear him, for they will enjoy a rare treat.

Mrs. Florence Forbes, the vocalist, who is to assist at this concert, is an artist whose ability is amply marvellous. She has a soprano voice of wonderful compass and purity of tone; her execution, perfection. She has no rival in America in interpreting Scotch ballads, which has won for her world wide fame. In appearance she is attractive, and is a lady whose social qualities make her a favorite wherever she goes. Professor Salmon will also be assisted by some home talent. Tickets 25 cents at Collins' music store. Secure them at once.

A Fair Offer.

The Volant Belt company, Marshall, Mich., offer to send Dr. J. C. Volant Belt and Appliances on trial for trial for thirty days, to men, young or old, afflicted with nervous debility, lost vitality, and kindred troubles. See advertisement in this paper.

White Elephants.

Mich. is being said now-days about white elephants, and a perceptible advance is noticeable in the white lead market, owing to the fact that so much of it will be in demand the coming season to keep in repair the various herds of these animals, that roam about the country in connection with the tented tropics, that add so much to the enjoyment of life during the summer months. With a laudable desire not to be outdone by any of his competitors, one popular showman decided to make a trip to the wilds of New York, recently, and corralled a whole herd of these noble animals, then enroute from the jungles across the sea.

A now pair of boots was ordered for the occasion; and, as the object of the proposed trip was in the interests of the most artistic show on earth, the boots were also artistic in design. They bordered on the tophook style, and as they stood in grand array behind the stove, quite out to black the pair of square toed everyday ones that stood beside them. Many people pride themselves on not being servative; and occasionally a man has been known to reach a round on a ladder of moral excellence, so near the top, as to be above the suggestive surroundings of ordinary existence; and yet, such men have come down from their lofty position suddenly, by the simple pressure of a sensitive cork, exerting its independence in the business end of a snug new boot. To avoid any embarrassment of this nature, one of the new boots was tried on late in the evening, and when taken off, was quietly placed alongside one of the old ones. The next morning, in the hurry to take the early train, the new and the old pair became strangely mixed, and one of each sort out on the white elephant hunt. As the train jogged along, down toward the city, and our friend was deeply engrossed with the mathematical problem of whether it would be better to paint his own elephants, or buy them already painted, and observant man who sat behind him, said: "Pardon me, my friend, but do you not inquire why you wear that style of boot?" The situation was hastily taken in; but he was not at all sensitive on the boot question. So he said:

"Well, my friend, if you must know, I will explain in as few words as possible. I am an importer of the sacred white elephant. Many times I have hunted them in the crumbly marshes of Africa. I have just supplied the great eastern showman with the only specimen of this kind ever discovered, and am now on my way to capture a herd of the same white animals for the great western show now fitting up at Janesville. I always wear this style of boot when I go for white elephants."

The explanation was satisfactory; the old boots made a successful trip, and the season opening May first, will demonstrate the fact that the Burr Robbins great railroad show will contain as many white elephants, and more wonderful curiosities, than any show on earth.

Home Charity.

The Gazette called attention a few days ago to the afflicted family of Mrs. E. Forbes, residing at No. 8, North Main street. The long struggle with poverty and disease through which this family have passed, is an ordeal that will not soon be forgotten. The dark experiences of life, and the burdens that fall to the lot of many unfortunate people are sometimes lightened by a generous sympathy; words are pleasant, but deeds speak louder. The above case was one that called for something more than the usual words of sympathy, expressed to those who in the ordinary walks of life, are able to bear the financial burdens such afflictions incur; it called for substantial aid, for money, that the remains of the little child might find a respectable sepulchre in a Christian burial ground in a Christian land. It is most gratifying to state that there were plenty of willing people who took a deep interest in behalf of the victim of this terrible affliction, and that they went to work with a will, and in a short time succeeded in raising about eighty dollars for the relief of Mrs. Forbes. Our people, who were approached, freely gave of their means to meet the necessities of this case. One gentleman, who took a deep interest in her behalf, called upon a few of his friends, and the result is the raising of the sum of twenty-seven dollars, which he has left at the Gazette office, subject to the order of Mrs. Forbes. One noteworthy thing in connection with this affair, which we desire to speak of in a commendable way, is the fact that none of the parties who have taken a prominent part in thus expressing their sympathy in such a substantial manner, desire to parade their names before the public, and request that no mention be made of it. The recipient of this substantial aid, Mrs. Forbes, requests us to express her heartfelt thanks to one and all, for their assistance in her great struggle, and that her fervent prayer will be that "Heaven's choicest blessings will be showered upon one and all."

Prevent sickness by taking occasional doses of Emory's Little Cambric Pills, a wonderful purgative, an absolute cure of Biliousness—15 cents.

Reformed.

Slowly, but surely, a desire has taken possession of us to reform, and lead a different life. We don't drink, or attend the club nights, or do anything out, breakingly wicked. We do smoke, but may be induced to stop, if the revenue is not reduced on cigars; but the great sin of which we plead guilty, is the trying to run two branches of business at the same time. Scarcely a day passes that some man does not write us for the latest quotation on corn cultivators, drags, fanning mills, and only yesterday a man came in and wanted to see one of our small-sized threshing machines. We showed him through the stock without making the sale, and when he left, threw down our price list, and said, "This thing has gone far enough; from henceforth and always, the Gazette printing office shall be what it claims to be, and not an agricultural depot. We will keep a liberal supply of Daily and Weekly Gazettes, a few old papers at ten cents a bundle, a good job office next door, an inviting editorial room, a broad smile on the open face of the gentlemanly Librarian behind the desk, an ear wide open for gossip, and a couple of good men to make a note of it. If all these embellishments do not fill the demand and excite public favor, we will be obliged to retire from business and go west. When you want anything in the way of agricultural implements consult the advertising columns of the Gazette. If you want a good live newspaper, subscribe for the Gazette."

The Weather.

At seven o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 11 degrees above zero. Partly cloudy—snowing—with north wind. At one o'clock p. m. the register was 31 degrees above zero. Cloudy with north wind. For the corresponding hours one year ago the register was 29 and 31 degrees above zero.

When we consider the little attention which is paid to the laws of health, we are not surprised at the indifference manifested in relation to the purity of the articles that are used in daily food. It is all right, but the market was as perfect as Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder, this indifference might question.

Food For Reflection.

You may say "times are dull," but reconsider the statement, or modify it some, what. The human family is large, and divided as it is into so many classes of society, that it is difficult, without serious reflection, to understand.

To-day is Saturday; it is also the first of March; and, as it is to welcome the new year, our streets are filled with a throng of individuals, evidently intent on the practical duties of the hour, or keeping time to the music of the "grand march." The streets are also lined with vehicles of the surrounding country, and the sleigh bells proclaim in their musical voices: "I am coming, clear the way!" The stores are well patronized, and everything is lively indeed. Many hearts are happy; many hearts are sad.

We meet the young and the gay, the old and the careworn; among the throng of passers-by, there are some who have thoughts of the realities of life; a man or woman with sadness in the face, is indignantly passed by the giddy and thoughtless; beneath that rough exterior there is a heart full of warm impulses, though the eyes have been dimmed with tears of sadness. Others, through necessity, have learned to appreciate the worth of their earnings, and are forced to apply the money where it is most needed. As the "sleep which is the sweetest, and gives the most repose, is the money which is earned by hard labor, is the most appreciated.

To-morrow will be Sunday, the church bells will call the wicked and the good to join in the service. Respond to their call, not to see the people, the styles or display an elaborate article of apparel, but for a purely religious motive. Remember that human nature is weak, and needs strength and encouragement. Have charity towards all, and don't forget the contribution box.

Limburger Cheese.

A cultivated taste, and sometimes a little cultivation of the nasal organs, is necessary for the average American to fully appreciate all the rare qualities contained in a small package of Limburger cheese. Some people never get beyond the cultivation of the last named organ, and instances are recorded where people of ordinary intelligence have run away from the innocent cheese, without an effort to create a liking in either direction. Limburger cheese, however, has some strong characteristics. It is independent; stands on its own merits; is constant and abiding; in fact possesses many qualities worthy of emulation.

There came into a prominent business office, a few days ago, a modest package of this noted cheese; it was strong enough to navigate alone, but possessing a social disposition, it was in the company of a man who had a liking for the fatherland diet, and the small package peered out of his overcoat pocket. Presently an English gentleman, accompanied by a white dog, dropped in; and shortly after a lady with a baby appeared on the scene, and the steady music of the pen indicated that business was good, and everything was moving along in its accustomed routine. The gentlemanly proprietor looked up over his gold bowed spectacles and said to the office boy: "John, the atmosphere seems a little close here; just drop a window for a few moments." The order was obeyed, and the fresh air from outside circulated freely through the atmosphere that evidently improved every moment. "John, the coal gas must be escaping from the stove; just turn the damper in the pipe." The damper was turned, but all to no purpose. The gentleman with the dog invited the animal to wait for him in the hall; and the lady with the baby excused herself and said she would call after dinner. The innocent cheese, in a quiet, unobtrusive way, kept throwing out its fragrance, until the air was as pregnant with the sweet odor as the most fastidious could desire. In a voice that showed a good deal of pent-up emotion, the proprietor said, "John, what the devil smells so?" John quietly said: "My dear sir, don't indulge in profanity. Kindly confine your comments to subjects within the grasp of my limited ability, and I will struggle with them manfully." This question, which you have just propounded, may admit of an analysis; but, pray, give me more time." The man in company with the Limburger at this juncture, said, "Miss friends, don't get excited; join me in a nice lunch," and taking from his pocket the little package, he continued, "schmoll of him!" The latter request was unnecessary.

The party adjourned sine die, a postal was dropped in the office to John, to thoroughly fumigate the room and have it ready to use again by the first of March.

A Lawyer's Opinion of Interest to Mill. J. A. Tawney, Esq., a leading attorney of Wisconsin, writes: "After using for more than three years, I take great pleasure in stating that I regard Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption as the best remedy in the world for coughs and colds I have had, and I have relieved the pain in the chest." Trial bottles of this sure cure for all throat and lung diseases may be had free at J. S. Sherer & Co.'s drug store. Large size $1.

Twenty-Four Hours to Live.

From John Kuhn, LaFayette, Ind., who announces that he is now in "perfect health," we have the following: "One year ago I was, to all appearances, in the last stages of Consumption. Our best physicians gave me up. I finally got so low that our doctor said I could only live twenty-four hours. My friends then purchased a bottle of DR. Wm. HALL'S BALM FOR THE LUNGS, which considerably benefited me. I continued until I took nine bottles, and I am now in perfect health."

Cancers, and cancerous tumors, are cured by the purifying effect of Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

No Grease for Him.

"When Grease her knees—Grease her knees—Grease her knees," stammered an embarrassed school boy, forgetting the next line of his recitation. "There is no occasion to grease anybody's knees," shouted his teacher. "Go and study your page." Neither is there occasion to grease your hair. Parker's Hair Balsam is all the dressing you want. Restores the original gloss and color to gray or faded hair. Does not soil the linen; not a drop good for the scalp; prevents falling out.

A Temperate but Satisfying Drink.

There has been of late years a demand for roasted coffee of the finest quality as to bouquet and strength in the cup. Dealers, in their efforts to supply this demand, have ordered all sorts of combinations, such as Mocha and Java, Maricao and Java, &c., &c., without obtaining the elixir they sought. We take pleasure in informing our readers that after many years of search in the markets of the world, Messrs. Bell, Conrad & Co., the enterprising and reliable tea, coffee and spice men of Chicago, have secured a coffee that is a breakfast in itself. This coffee is their Plantation Java, which we take pleasure in recommending to our readers as the finest coffee grown, possessing strength and flavor, the two essentials of a perfect coffee. This Plantation Java is strictly a private growth, and by special arrangement Messrs. Bell, Conrad & Co. will control all that is grown. They guarantee the coffee to suit the most fastidious connoisseur, and the money will be refunded, should the coffee prove inferior to the quality of the leading grocers in Janesville carry the Plantation Java in stock. For sale by Conrad & Jones, W. T. Vankirk, Bull & Bates, W. F. Clark, Davies & Bros., S. Holdridge, Jr., Tarrant & Co. good.
